

Chore Chart Printables

By Erica @ www.confessionsofahomeschooler.com

Supplies needed:

- Cardstock
- Hanging card holder similar to the one in the photo.
- Reward Stickers
- Small Prize box (you can make this anything you like)

Instructions for Slots:

1. Card with child's name
2. Chore cards to be completed
3. Completed chore cards and reward tickets
4. Reward sticker chart & Best Bee-havior awards

Put the assigned task cards in the 2nd slot. When a task is completed, your child should move that card over into space number 3.

At the end of the day, look to see which tasks are completed and switch them out with reward tickets and stickers. At the end of the week, allow your child to spend his tickets on items in a small prize box (gum, candy, erasers, pencils, etc) .

If your child completes all the assigned tasks in a day, they receive a sticker on the reward card in the 4th slot. Once that reward card is full, they can exchange it for something more special like larger prize box, I use things like mini-Lego sets, Pet-Shop's, Polly Pockets, computer time, TV time, Wii Time etc.

Included are also "Best Bee-havior" cards that you can reward when your child has displayed a good attitude for the entire day, helping others, being kind to siblings, or anything else you deem as outstanding behavior. These are very special for our family and are handed out only for very good behavior. They can be redeemed for something fancier like a trip to ice cream, a sleep over, etc.

Once I switch the task cards out for tickets and give any earned stickers, I put the cards back in the "to be completed" slot #2 for the next day. If a task is not completed, the child does not earn tickets or stickers.
